What does the Family Resource Center mean to you and your family?

The Family Resource Center was a wonderful resource and fun place to go when I was staying home with my daughter for a few years. It was her first introduction to organized playgroup, snacks, circle time, taking turns, learning to play with others...things she needed as she grew older in preschool. In addition, they had great field trips and fun get together soon like messy night and music class! They also made me confident that the stages my child was going through were normal developmentally. They did an assessment of her to confirm! I am so glad we had this resource and would be sad for future families if it was closed.
